FOR AGED PEOPLE.

Old Folks Should Be Careful in Their Selection of Regulative Medicine.

With advanced age comes inactive bowel movement and sluggish liver. Nature is unable to perform her proper functions and requires assistance. Otherwise, there is constant suffering from constipation and its attendant evils. Old folks should never use physic that is harsh and irritating.

We have a safe, dependable and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitutions who suffer from constipation or either bowel disorder. We are so certain that it will cure these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we will offer them with our personal guarantee that they shall cost the user nothing if they fail to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies have a soothing, healing, strengthening, tonic and regulative action upon the dry, relax muscular coat of the bowel. They produce a natural, successive contraction and relaxation of the muscular fibres of the bowel walls, generating a wave-like motion which forces their contents onward and outward; thus simulating nature in perfect bowel movement. They also remove all irritation, dryness, soreness and weakness. They tone up and strengthen the nerves and muscles and restore the bowels and associate organs to more vigorous and healthy activity. They may be taken at any time without inconvenience, do not cause any griping, nausea, diarrhea, excessive looseness, flatulence or other disagreeable effect. Try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee. 36 tablets 25c., and 12 tablets 10c. The B. M. Hyde Drug Co., 202 206 Main St., and 159 East Ave. Mrs. M. A. Rockwell, Emporium, Pa.

Also to elect three delegates in each ward to attend the Republican Borough Convention, at the City Hall, Monday evening, Jan. 25th, 1909, to nominate candidates for Borough offices.

H. O. HAUPT,
W. H. HOWARD,
Ward Committeemen.

Basket Ball.

On January 15, Emporium defeated the fast team from Hicks Run by the score of 45 to 14 and on Jan. 18, St. Marys team took our boys in tow at St Marys to the tune of 39 to 22 in the fastest game of the season. During the game at St. Marys, Chas. Hockley had the misfortune to hurt his shoulder which will keep him out of the game for some time.

Friday night next, Emporium will tackle the strong team from Ridgway at the opera house. This game will certainly be one worth seeing for as Ridgway is conceded to be one of the fastest teams in this section. The game will be called at 8:30 and everybody should try to be on hand. Don't forget.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16, 1909.

Ever since the command from the White House went forth that army and navy officers would be required to undergo a mild physical endurance test there have been muffled protests. As a usual thing army and navy men over forty years old do not keep themselves in training and it is suspected that a majority of them after a horseback ride of ten or fifteen miles would experience considerable fatigue and soreness. The test required by the President was a horseback ride of ninety miles in three consecutive days, a pretty severe test for soft men of middle age, the majority of them weighing two hundred pounds? The men weighing that much is probably not in good health and has spent too many years since he was thirsty in sedentary eating and drinking. He is too heavy for an ordinary horse, and extraordinary horses are hard to find A rider in practice has an indurated seat and can easily ride thirty miles a day not only for three consecutive days but for ten or thirty. Well the groans, and the protests of the captains, colonels and majors came to the ear of the President and he determined to show them what the Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy could do and to that end one day this week he got up between three and four o'clock in the morning mounted his horse and with three companions rode to Warrenton, Virginia where he ate luncheon and, after a rest of half an hour rode back to the White House arriving about eight o'clock at night, having covered in the round trip, a distance of ninety eight miles, in other words, having ridden in one day eight miles more than he has required regular army and navy officers to ride in three days. The President weighs two hundred pounds but he is tough and as hard as nails. He has been riding constantly for years, probably about eighteen miles a day and was of course in training. There can be no doubt but that there is too much effeminacy on softness among the officers both of the army and of the navy. Mr. Roosevelt doubtless remembers the striking example of General Shafter who was in command of the Cuban army sent in midsummer to Cuba. The immensely stout old General weighed probably three hundred and fifty pounds but in the way of baggage he was like a three hundred and fifty ton millstone around the neck of the army. His headquarters were miles in the rear of the army and there on a couch groaning with gout he sweltered in the humid tropical July climate.

The lives and the treasure lost to the country through promotion by seniority of unfit men will never be known The only road to physical fitness is through exercise and abstemiousness. There can be no sufficient exercises without abstemiousness. Rockefeller's doctor has just predicted that the multi-millionaire will live to be a hundred years old because as he say, "he takes a great deal of exercises in open air and always leaves the table hungry." Of course the doctors prophesy is not proved but it may be assumed that Rockefeller has about as good a physician and as wise as money will buy and this hint and suggestion in the way of preventive medicine is one that every reader may note and profit by without paying the bill that Mr. Rockefeller pays his doctor.

That the present Congress is of the opinion that the big President elect is worth fifty thousand dollars a year more than the President who has been flourishing the big stick is plain to see. Yesterday Senator Cullom reported the legislative, executive and judicial bill to the Senate. The most prominent feature of this bill is an increase of the salary of the President of the United Statts to one hundred thousand dollars a oear. The sume bill increases the salary of the Vice President to twenty thousand dollars, and that of the Speaker of the House to twenty thousand. This is a doubling of the salaries for all three offices. Until the election of President Grant the salary of the President of the United States was only twenty-five thousand dollars a year and now after thirty-seven years at fifty thousand dollars it is proposed again to double it The wealth of the country has more than doubled since the President's salary was last increased and there are a number of men, presidents of much smaller corporation than the United States of American, who are receiving a yearly salary of more that it is now proposed to pay the President.

Ma's New Husband.

A gentleman, his wife and child were occupying a box at a performace of "Ma's New Husband" which appears at the opera house, Jan. 27th. The child began to cry and an usher informed his parents that if the child cried again they must get their money back at the box office and leave the theatre. The child stopped and all was quiet until the third act. The father figited for a moment, then leaned over and said to his wife What did the usher say about Tommy? That if he cried we would have to go to the box office and get our money back, replied his wife. "Make him cry," said the husband.

Gone to Florida.

Hon. Geo. J. LaBar and wife, Mrs. C. W Rishell and Miss Mallick left on Wednesday for Florida to spend several weeks in that land of sunshine and oranges. They will visit all the principal points, but expect to put up at either Jacksonville or Orlando. We wish we could join them for we know they will nave a delightful time and will escape our disagreeable weather—Feb. and March.

Judge Green for Supreme Court Judge.

The very cordial endorsement of Judge Green's candidacy for the Republican nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania by the members of the Bar of every county composing this judicial district—Clinton, Cameron and Elk counties—is very gratifying to the able jurist's friends, who recognize in Judge Green that eminent ability displayed in thirty-five years' active practice before the courts of the West Branch Valley, as well as the Supreme and U. S. Courts, followed by an honorable career as President Judge of this the 25th Judicial District. The extensive manufacturing, farming, mining and business interests of the great North West, never yet accorded representation on the Supreme Bench, know and appreciate Judge Green's bright, able and conscientious legal ability and will be highly honored and gratified should he be nominated as the successor to Judge Mitchell Many other able gentlemen are mentioned as candidates, but none surpass our favorite. The convention will make no mistake if they nominate Hon. B. W Green for Justice of the Supreme Court.

Spirit Dictated to Sardou.

Before he made his reputation by writing plays Victorien Sardou, the French dramatist, who was deeply interested in spiritualism, had a remarkable experience in taking dictation. He had been interested in occult phenomena, and, by chance, he came ito into communication with a spirit personality who signed himself "Bernard Polissy." M. Sardau, who recently passed into the larger life, has told the story of his experiments in an article entitled, "Only the Blindly Ignorant Scoff," in the Fedruary Delineator. He says:

One day, in my room with two friends, I thought I would make the little table where we had taken our coffee run about the room, as a had often done when alone. Without saying anything I put my hand on the table, but it would not budge. I tried in vain all the time they were there to make it move, but to no avail. As soon as they were gone I could make it do what I pleased, even jump clear off the floor. So I took up my pencil and asked: "But why would you not make the table move while my friends were here?" The hand which held the pencil wrote, "They were too stupid."

Shortly after this I was sitting by my table one day. idling, dreaming, not making any effort to do anything in particular. All of a sudden my hand began to work on the paper before me with a rapidity and precision which astonished me.

And it kept this up for close to two hours. The result was a fantastic piece of work drawn in delicate lines, fine almost as a spider's web, and at the bottom a signature—"Bernard Polissy." "What is it?" I asked.

And my automatic hand wrote: "The House of Swedenborg on the Planet Jupiter." This was considered as most curious by all my friends, who knew that personally, I had no aptitude for drawing. A plate was prepared and I was given an itching tool. The result, in the same order of design, was a more elaborate piece of work, this time curiously combined out of all sorts of musical terms, clefs, notes, bars, and so on, and the whole was designated as the House of Mozart, also on Jupiter, and the whole was again signed "Palissy." In fact, Bernard Polissy became my almost constant companion from this on, like my second self.

Senator Boies Penrose Scores Third Term.

The re-election of United States Senator Boies Penrose for the third term on Tuesday, by 198, to 42 for Senator Dimeling, is a royal and just vindication. No public official has been more bitterly and outrageously maligned in recent years than Senator Penrose, unless it was that greatest and most loved and feared, the lamented Matthew Stanley Quay. It was a great victory for Senator Penrose and a terrible rebuke to the character assassins and yellow journals. Senator Penrose, the hardest worker in the United States Senate, simply sawed wood and the people championed his cause.

Asks Us to Print.

To relieve the worst forms of Rheumatism, take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from our home druggists, and are easily mixed by shaking them well in a bottle. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

This prescription forces the clogged-up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and torturous disease, but dangerous to life, this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here at home, who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

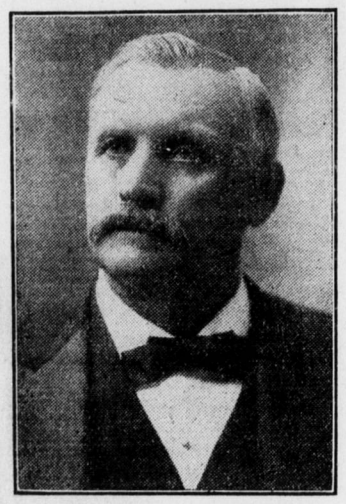
It is said that a person who would take this prescription regularly, a dose or two daily, or even a few times a week, would never have serious Kidney or Urinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescription which really relieves are scarce, indeed, and when you need it, you want it badly.

Don't miss seeing "Ma's New Husband", which will be presented at the opera house, Wednesday Jan. 27th.

JUDGE GREEN CANDIDATE FOR SUPREME BENCH

Warmly Endorsed by Bar Associations of Cameron and Elk Counties



From Lock Haven Daily Express.

Hon. B. W. Green, of Emporium, the former president judge of the twenty-fifth judicial district, composed of Clinton, Cameron and Elk counties, has decided to be a candidate for the supreme court judgeship of Pennsylvania and his candidacy has been warmly endorsed by the bar associations of Cameron and Elk counties. His home county of Cameron has appointed a committee of prominent citizens to promote his candidacy, to succeed Hon. James T. Mitchell, the chief justice of the supreme court, whose term expires the first Monday of January, 1910.

It is understood that the nomination on the Republican ticket is to go to the "country" this time and if this be true, Judge Green should have a good chance of securing the "plum." His fitness for the place is recognized and the flattering endorsement by the bar association of his home county is excellent testimony to this fact, as the following will show.

At a meeting of the Cameron County Bar association, held January 6, 1909 the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The official term of Hon. James T. Mitchell, chief justice of the supreme court of Pennsylvania will expire on the first Monday of January, 1910, making it necessary to nominate and elect in 1909, one person to be a justice of the supreme court.

AND WHEREAS, The members of the Cameron County Bar association believe that Northern Pennsylvania, should be represented upon the bench of the supreme court by an eminent member of the bar familiar with the great industries of this section of the state and able to cope with the important legal questions growing out of the business peculiar to this section of the commonwealth.

AND WHEREAS, Hon. B. W. Green, late president judge of the twenty-fifth judicial district of Pennsylvania, embracing the counties of Cameron, Elk and Clinton, is acknowledged to be a leading and most learned lawyer, eminent as a citizen, sound and upright as a judge, of thirty-six years active practice at the bar and is qualified by his training and experience, both upon the bench and at the bar to faithfully, ably and fearlessly discharge the duties of the high and responsible office of justice of the supreme court.

Now be it resolved by the Cameron county Bar association, that we urgently request Hon. B W. Green to become a candidate for justice of the supreme Bar association, that we urgently request Hon. B. W. Green to become a condidate for justice of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, and we pledge our hearty co-operation and support for his nomination.

And be it further resolved, that Hon. J. C. Johnson, Frank D. Leet, James P. McNarney, Fred A. Johnson and Jay P. Felt, members of the Cameron County Bar association, be appointed a committee to promote the candidacy of Hon. B. W. Green for the Republican nomination as justice of the supreme court of Pennsylvania.

The bar association of Elk county, of which Judge Harry Alvan Hall is the president, has also pledged to support Judge Green's nomination for this high office. At a meeting of this association, held January 18th, 1909, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, the official term of Hon. James T Mitchell, chief justice of the supreme court of Pennsylvania will expire on the first Monday of January, 1910, making it necessary to nominate and elect in 1909, one person to be a justice of the supreme court.

AND WHEREAS, The members of the Elk county Bar association believe that Northern Pennsylvania should be represented upon the bench of the supreme court by an eminent member of the bar, familiar with the great industries of this section of the state and able to cope with the important legal quesions growing out of the buisness peculiar to this section of the commonwealth;

AND WHEREAS, Hon. B. W. Green, late president judge of the twenty-fifth judicial district of Pennsylvania, embracing the counties of Cameron, Elk and Clinton, is acknowledged to be a leading and most learned lawyer, eminent as a citizen, sound and upright as a judge, of thirty-six years active practice at the bar and is qualified by his training and experience both upon the bench and at the bar, to faithfully, ably and fearlessly discharge the duties of the high and responsible office of justice of the supreme court.

Now be it resolved by the Elk County Bar association, that we urgently request Hon. B. W. Green to become a candidate for the nomination of the Republican party for justice of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, and we pledge our hearty co-operation and support for his nomination.

It's a Girl.

"Henry Auchu, is setting up the cigars. It's a girl and tips the scales at the usuel weight." The above is a clipping taken from the CAMERON COUNTY PRESS, published Jan. 22, 1891, and the anniversary of the event was celebrated in fine order last Monday evening by a dance given at the Theatorium hall in honor of Miss Ellen Auchu. The party was a complete surprise, the plans having been made by several of her friends, and it was indeed genuine, as the young lady never once thought of such a thing. Miss Auchu is one of Emporium's most charming and jolly daughters and, after the effects of the surprise passed away, proceeded in her usual happy way to make her guests have a good time, indeed all, who were lucky enough to receive an invitation, had. Mesdames Henry Auchu and A. F. Vogt were patronesses of the evening. The "wee sma' hours" arrived all too quickly and the guests departed for their homes wishing Miss Auchu many happy returns of the day. Those present were: Miss Christy McDonald, Lena Coyle, Kathryn and Julia Hogan, Frances, Helen and Agnes Blumle, Bose Ganey, Vera Geary, Mayme Cummings, Kate Welsh, Lena and Julia Bair, Lillian Cotter, Edna Auchu and Messrs. Herbert Vogt, Ed. Foster, Raymond and Guy Klees, Frank Eckstein, Hugh Swartz, Jay Nangle, Carl Thompson, Guy Thomson, Charles Farrell, John Stephens, Frank Cavanaugh, Scott Sterner, James Murphy, Homer Hayes, Mose Harris, Dr. Mitchell, J. M Bair, Mr. and Mrs. Erkstine, Mr. and Mrs. A F. Vogt and Mr. and Mrs Henry Auchu. Out of town guests were: Miss Ella McCloskey, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lion, St. Mary; Mr. George Evans, Allegheny, Pa., and Mr. Pat Larry, Ridgway. Miss Auchu received many useful and beautiful gifts.

A Successful Pie Social.

The Pie Social that was held at Howard's Siding last Saturday evening proved to be a most successful affair. Howard Shriner, of this place, acted as auctioneer and fine prices were received for the pies, amounting to as high as $3.50. Those who attended from Emporium were: Misses Flavia Lathrope, Marguerite Metzger, Margaret Dodson, Opelia Dodson, Erma Randolph, Ina Hopple, Kathryn Vogt, Mamie Farrell, Martha Barnes, Nell Thomas, Myrtle Gregory, Mrs. E. E. Randolph, Messrs. John Murray, Allen Randolph, Neal Coppersmith, Howard Shriner, Windell Hopple, Arthur Catlin, Richard Hughes and Charles Piper. A very enjoyable time was had by all present.

Lessons in Smiling.

The course of instruction in smiling which is proposed in the public schools of one of the large cities of the country ought to be popular. Will it be given by the teacher of gymnastics or of psychology? Will it be compulsory for girls and elective for boys? Will it be possible to escape it by passing a satisfactory examination? Clerks should be the first patrons of such instruction, suggests the Youth's Companion. What is there about the task of selling buttons or ribbons or milk-pans which casts a gloom over the countenance of the seller? It is a curious fact that "drummers" are a smiling race, and clerks a sad one. Yet one would suppose that begging folk to buy would be a less cheerful occupation than being entreated to sell. Can the general housework girl be taught to smile when unexpected company comes to dinner? Can the trolley-car conductor beam on the mother with three babies under five years old? Can the farmer's boy reply to the question of the summer visitor with a grin instead of a scowl? The school board way well consider whether there is not some scheme by which a telephone girl can project a smile into her voice as she announces, "Double one four two, ring three—line busy!" When the Sunshine society can supply a smiling attachment for telephones and cash-registers and phonographs and door-bells and automobile horns, they will command a market. Meantime, may the course in smiling prosper, even if it has to be catalogued under the head of ethics!

From the state of Washington comes a story of a young woman who, seeing a bear in the back yard, got out her trusty 22-caliber rifle and pursued it up a tree. In South Dakota, the same day's dispatches relate, a young married woman saw a cash prize hung up for the best corn-husker, and there upon went forth and pulled it down. This species of new woman, declares the Chicago Daily News, will not be denied when she takes a notion that she wants the ballot. Let her eastern sisters enlist her in the cause and there will be some action in addition to a few scalplocks in the air. So long as man could say, "I'm your natural protector; home is the place for you," woman's cause looked doubtful. Now, however, since she is a mighty bear hunter and a nifty corn-picker, her chances for getting the ear of the White House as well as the sympathies of the common people ought to be more than good.

The chef of a fashionable New York restaurant serves real American beauty roses as a salad, stuffing them with cheese and dressing them with mayonnaise, and is said to pride himself on the novel dish. That chef is a graceless wretch who ought to be drenched in mayonnaise himself along with the patrons who order the desecrated flower. American beauty salad, indeed!

An army officer in Washington was convicted of disorderly conduct on a street car, the evidence showing that it took five policemen to carry the belligerant officer to the hospital. The sentence of dismissal was commuted, and with reason, for a fighter like that would be a great loss in time of active service.

A New York man has figured out how by careful management an automobile can be kept up at $2,300 per year. At that rate a $50-a-week man has only to figure further how to bring his other living expenses within $300, in order to reach the present goal of social ambition.

The Swedish National Commission for the Prevention of Tuberculosis has recommended the gradual establishment of 4,600 retreats for consumptives, to be scattered throughout the length and breadth of the country. The total cost will be nearly 11,000,000 crowns.

Edison's prediction that heat from the sun will be utilized in such a manner that fuel will be needless sounds hopeful. But the process will doubtless require a large plant controlled by one of the big corporations.

Appointments of Messrs. Knox and Wickersham Prove Fitness of President-Elect for His High Position.

The president-elect announces that his secretary of state will be Hon. Philander C. Knox, who was attorney general in Mr. McKinley's second term and is now senator from Pennsylvania. It is also officially announced that George W. Wickersham of New York will be Mr. Taft's attorney general.

The selection of Mr. Knox is one that commands public confidence. Few men have risen faster from private success to public esteem or held that esteem with less question. It is not given to many men in times of peace to become recognized pillars of the republic within so few years.

Prior to his appointment as attorney general in April, 1901, Mr. Knox was unknown to the nation at large. To the legal profession he was known as a successful Pittsburg lawyer of highly respectable position. From those who make hasty assumptions his appointment was objected to as that of "a mere corporation lawyer."

He speedily showed that his sense of public duty was in no way colored by the accident of his associations in private practice. Under his administration the department of justice stood for evenhanded enforcement of the laws. His record has been made more illustrious from the inevitable comparison with that of his successors.

Mr. Wickersham is as little known to the nation at large now as was Mr. Knox early in 1901. However, the fact that he is described where best known as an "old-fashioned lawyer" must be regarded as a promising sign. The country has become weary of attorneys general who ask the courts to disregard the constitution, or who make a jest of grave questions of national welfare.

It is worthy of note that in the acceptance of both Mr. Knox and Mr. Wickersham there is a clear preference of public duty to mere ease and profit. One would have an easier life by remaining in the senate. The other could make more money by sticking to his law office. The preference of both shows what cant are certain assumptions most current among those who criticise public men most severely. Though it must be also the post of danger, the patriot prefers the post of honorable service.

That Mr. Taft's first selections for his cabinet not as a matter of course, as was that of Mr. Hitchcock, are of the character they are is a cheerful sign to the country. They give hopeful promise that the incoming administration will be guided by broad thought for the general welfare of the American people.

Very Significant Figures.

In the quarterly statement of the United States Steel Corporation there is ample ground for the belief that business and industrial conditions are rapidly improving. While the earnings are lower than for the high-tide quarter ending with September of last year they show an increase of nearly $7,000,000 over the preceding quarter, ended with June. This is the more significant when compared with the increase of only $2,000,000 for the second quarter over the first quarter.

Put in another way, the increase of the third quarter over the second is 3½ times the increase of the second over the first. Moreover, the increase since March 31 to 50 per cent. of the total earnings for the first quarter of the year. At the same rate of progress for the current quarter the earnings for the last half of the year may easily be double those of the first half of the year, and up to the highest rate of the corporation.

CALLS FOR A SETTLEMENT.

Sentence of Labor Leaders Brings Up Vital Question.

It is, all things considered, fortunate that men of the high character and acknowledged worth of Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison have become the agents by whose acts the vital questions of the boycott, the court injunction, contempt of court, the right of free speech and freedom of the press have been brought forward in a way which demands for them full consideration and final judgment by the courts and the people. These questions go to the very foundation of popular government. It is to be expected that they will be settled right in the end; for we have Abraham Lincoln's word for it that no question is ever settled until it is settled right.

In this great controversy the element of peril is the sentiment that there is "one law for the rich and another for the poor." Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison offend a court and are sentenced to jail. A great corporation offends and is fined. It is known that President Roosevelt and other clear-sighted men are greatly disturbed by such demonstrations of differences in the application of the law. Unquestionably the trade unionist and the head of the trust should be equally careful to refrain from unlawful acts. If they offend they should be punished with equal severity. Both, however, are inclined to rail at court decisions. The courts are established by the people for the people. Being human institutions they are fallible.

Americans want all the freedom that is right for them to exercise. It is not difficult to see faults on both sides in this case. The deliberate violation of a court injunction while its validity was being tested in a higher court surely was improper from any point of view.—Chicago Daily News (Ind.)

Taft for the Consumers.

In his solicitude for fair tariff revision, Mr. Taft does not give himself any concern about the industries so far as needed testimony is concerned. He knows from history, and from the policy of the tariff revision committee now sitting, that the protected interests will be heard to the full extent of their prejudiced, one-sided evidence.

He does want the side of the consumers to be heard and recorded, and he indirectly calls the committee to account for not taking initiative action to secure testimony on this side of the case. The justice of this criticism is obvious. Suppose, for example, that in order to fortify the side of the interests it had been necessary to send subcommittees to various parts of the country, to call upon representatives of the consuming class, does anyone believe for a minute that this committee, presided over by Mr. Payne, would have failed to take these steps?

The whole policy of revision committees in the past has been to leave nothing undone that could be done to strengthen the claims for high protective duties and to do nothing that could be left undone to show the rights of the consumers. But for the determination of Mr. Taft to have honest revision, a great many Republicans in congress would be more than willing that the next revision should be accomplished in the same old way.

The New Tariff Bill.

Now that the ways and means committee has begun the drafting of a tariff bill interest in the subject will be greatly quickened. Not that the bill drafted is likely to be accepted in the form presented. That is most unlikely. The new ways and means committee must pass upon it, then the next house, and then the senate. Changes, and maybe many of them, are inevitable. But the bill will afford the basis for speculation as to what the contest will turn upon respecting the meaning of the Chicago platform In other words, what was comprehended now, in the promise of tariff revision?

WINDOW GLASS TRUST FORMED

TAKES IN VIRTUALLY ALL MANUFACTURERS OF HAND-BLOWN GLASS IN COUNTRY.

WAGE SCALE TO BE FIXED LATER

Factories in Combine Are Located in Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana, New York, Pennsylvania, Kansas and California.

Columbus, O.—After two days of conference and argument over terms of consolidation window glass manufacturers on Thursday in their meeting came to an agreement, and within a few days the Imperial Window Glass Co., which will include in its personnel practically every manufacturer of hand-blown window glass in the United States, will be launched.

The capitalization of the company, its officers and other details were not definitely decided. Out of the 2,000 and more pots of the independent window glass factories, over 1,750 signed the agreement and when the remaining factories, which are located in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, are heard from, the final touches will be put on the new corporation. W. L. Jones & Co., who own three large plants in West Virginia, on Thursday decided to join the merger. It was the decision of this firm to enter the new company which made possible its organization, as without its factories the merger could not have been formed.

It is probable that the headquarters of the new company will be in Pittsburg. The factories which will be controlled are located in Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana, Pennsylvania, New York, Kansas and California.

Pending the completion of the consolidation the question of the new wage scale will be allowed to lie as it is. Practically all of the factories are closed down by the strike of the workmen, and when the new organization is completed, then the subject of a settlement will be taken up. Under present conditions in the glass trade, the owners of many of the factories are not anxious to operate, and both Messrs. Faulkner and Burns, leaders of the rival organizations of workmen, were unable to obtain any official conference with the employers.

Cleveland Jan. 15.—Declaring that it would would mean a reduction of 40 per cent from the old straight list and lower wages than glass workers ever worked for under the sliding scale, President Faulkner of the National Glass Workers says that organization could not countenance the plans proposed at the Columbus meeting of manufacturers in the formation of the Imperial Glass Co., designed as an independent combination. Mr. Faulkner returned from Columbus with information that the organization named had, through committees, agreed upon a forfeit of $100 per pot and that certain manufacturers would put plants out of blast until the workers had coincided upon an agreement based on the selling price of 90-30 single strength and 90-40 double strength. President Faulkner asserted that the workers could derive no benefit whatever under this arrangement and could do nothing other than continue the fight along the lines inaugurated when the strike of the glass workers was called.

MINISTER'S BRAIN DISEASED

Doctors Find Evidence of Decided Cerebral Derangement in Murderer Carmichael.

Detroit, Mich.—The brain of Rev. J. H. Carmichael, who killed Gideon Browning in the Rattle Run church and committed suicide at Carthage, Ill., was examined by four physicians Thursday night. At the conclusion of the autopsy the physicians stated that they had found unmistakable evidence of insanity.

"We find that Rev. Mr. Carmichael had been a sufferer from acute mania," said the physicians. "The blood vessels of the brain were all congested. There was an adhesion of the coverings of the brain to the cranium which showed an anaemia of the right side of the brain and we found granulations of the superior posterior surface of the cerebrum. It is evident that Rev. Carmichael had suffered several attacks of acute inflammation of the brain."

The doctors agreed that the marks found upon the body, which had given rise to the report that the dead man had been addicted to the use of a hypodermic syringe for administering drugs, had all been made after the minister's death.

Rev. Carmichael's funeral will be held Friday at Romulus, Mich., in the Methodist church, Rev. C. B. Steele, presiding elder of the Port Huron district, officiating.

HE "WILL SIGN NO SUCH BILL"

PRESIDENT VETOES MEASURE FOR DAMMING A RIVER.

Outlines Policy that Government Should Adopt in Giving Public Property Over to Private Control.

Washington.—President Roosevelt sent a special message to the house on Friday with his veto of the bill providing for the construction of a dam across James river in Stone county, Missouri, the purpose of the dam being to get water to create electric power. He declared that the movement to secure control of the water power of the country is still in its infancy, but that "unless it is controlled the history of the oil industry will be repeated in the hydro-electric power industry, with the results far more oppressive and disastrous for the people."

"It is true," he added, "that the great bulk of our potential water power is as yet undeveloped, but the sites which are now controlled by combinations are those which offer the greatest advantages and therefore hold strategic position."

He says that "the bill gives to the grantee a valuable privilege, which by its very nature is monopolistic, and does not contain the conditions essential to protect the public interest."

Continuing, he says:

I repeat the words with which I concluded my message vetoing the Rainy River bill:

In place of the present haphazard policy of permanently alienating valuable public property we should substitute a definite policy along the following lines:

First. There should be a limited or carefully guarded grant in the nature of an option or opportunity afforded within reasonable time for development of plans and for execution of the project.

Second. Such a grant or concession should be accomplished in the act making the grant by a provision expressly making it the duty of a designated official to annul the grant if the work is not begun or plans are not carried out in accordance with the authority granted.

Third. It should also be the duty of some designated official to see to it that in approving the plans the maximum development of the navigation and power is assured, or at least that in making the plans these may not be so developed as ultimately to interfere with the better utilization of the water or complete development of the power.

Fourth. There should be a license fee or charge which, though small or nominal at the outset, can in the future be adjusted so as to secure a control in the interest of the public.

Fifth. Provision should be made for the termination of the grant or privilege at a definite time, leaving to future generations the power or authority to renew or extend the concession in accordance with the conditions which may prevail at that time.

Further reflection suggests a sixth condition, viz:

The license should be forfeited upon proof that the licensee has joined in any conspiracy or unlawful combination in restraint of trade, as is provided for grants of coal lands in Alaska by the act of May 28, 1908.

I will sign no bill granting a privilege of this character which does not contain the substance of these conditions. I consider myself bound, as far as exercise of my executive power will allow, to do for the people, in prevention of monopoly of their resources, what I believe they would do for themselves if they were in a position to act. Accordingly I shall insist upon the conditions mentioned above not only in acts which I sign, but also in passing upon plans for use of water power presented to the executive departments for action. The imposition of conditions has received the sanction of congress in the general act of 1906, regulating the construction of dams in navigable waters, which authorizes the imposing of "such conditions and stipulations as the chief of engineers and the secretary of war may deem necessary to protect the present and future interests of the United States."

I inclose a letter from the commissioner of corporations, setting forth the results of his investigations and the evidence of the far-reaching plans and operations of the General Electric Co., the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., and other large concerns, for consolidation of the water powers of the country under their control. I also inclose the memorandum of the solicitor general above referred to.

I esteem it my duty to use every endeavor to prevent this growing monopoly, the most threatening which has ever appeared, from being fastened upon the people of this nation.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE

Dun & Co. Report General Progress, Except in Iron and Steel.

New York City.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Trade during the first half of January shows expected progress. New undertakings are encouraged by the more settled policy regarding large financial and industrial affairs and ample funds are available. Leading industries gradually increase working forces and output and while in most lines both continue below normal, the gains established in the closing months of last year are fully maintained.

Disappointment is manifest in the iron and steel markets, demand lacking snap and requirements coming out in a hesitating way. Better buying was expected owing to cheap money and the fact that the entire country is practically bare of finished goods. Little inquiry is received from the railroads.

SETENTEEN HOURS IN SADDLE

ROOSEVELT SETS AN EXAMPLE FOR ARMY MEN TO FOLLOW.

President Made Trip to Prove to Military Critics that 90 Miles in Three Days Is Not Too Much.

Washington.—President Roosevelt rode 98 miles on horseback on Wednesday, and when he dismounted at the White House door, more than 17 hours after having departed therefrom, he did not show any marked signs of weariness. The object of his long day in the saddle, he explained to a representative of the Associated Press after his return, was to "prove to the critics who have found fault with the recent order requiring all army and navy officers to take physical tests, that if a president who is not in training can ride 90 miles in one day without being laid up in bed thereby, it should not be too much to ask the men who are supposed to be in the best physical training all the time to ride 90 miles in three days."

Mounting his faithful rider and jumped "Roswell" in front of the White House door at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday morning he dismounted at the same place at 8:40 Wednesday night. His journey was to Warrenton, Va., and back. On the return trip the last 30 miles of the journey were made in sleet and rain, while the last 15 miles were in almost pitch darkness. When he dismounted his coat and hat were frozen stiff with sleet and ice. There were four relays of horses, the first stage of the journey out and the last in being made by the president on "Roswell"; the second out and third in being on "Georgia"; while the other two were on army horses which the president had never before mounted.

As the four horseback riders, followed by two policemen on wheels and the empty carriage drove into the sleet shimmering grounds surrounding the executive mansion, the president in front with his broad brimmed black slouch hat drawn down over his face, presented a striking picture. Both the outward and the return trip lay through Fairfax court house to Warrenton. Arriving at the latter place about 11 o'clock, where the president's coming had been heralded an hour or so before his arrival, he was greeted by a gathering of citizens and school children to whom he spoke a few words of greeting.

In less than an hour after returning to the White House the president had changed his ice-coated clothing for evening dress and appeared in the dining room, ready for as hearty a meal as he has eaten for a long time.

If any of the critics of his "army riding order" had dropped in about that time they would have been sadly disappointed, for the president did not show in the least by his walk that he had been sitting for nearly 17 hours in a hard saddle.

KING GETS FOURTEEN YEARS

Convicted Boston Broker Accuses Thomas W. Lawson of His Financial Ruin.

Boston, Mass.—Cardenio F. King, former financial agent and broker, who maintained palatial offices in Boston and New York and who for a short time was publisher of a daily paper here, was Wednesday night sentenced by Judge Schofield in the superior criminal court to serve a term of not less than 10 and not more than 14 years at hard labor in the state prison at Charlestown.

On December 29 King was convicted on 27 counts of an indictment charging him with larceny and embezzlement and with securing by false pretenses the sum of $22,000 from his customers.

The sentence followed a dramatic statement by King in court, during which he reviewed the story of his life, his flight from Boston and his travels in England, France and Ceylon. He declared that he was innocent of any wrong intent in any of his acts and in closing his address he accused Thomas W. Lawson of secretly fighting him and bringing him to financial ruin.

The last move of Mr. King's attorney to secure a delay took the form of a motion for a stay of execution which sought to have the imposing of sentence delayed until Saturday. Judge Schofield declined to grant the request, and imposed the sentence.

UNCLE SAM'S PREPARATIONS TO COUNT YOU

BY WILLARD W. GARRISON

FOR the thirteenth time in his 130-year career Uncle Sam is getting ready to count noses. Census-taking will occupy all his energies in 1910, but even to-day he is getting ready for that Herculean task. It is the biggest thing the United States does once in every ten years, but to-day the system for its accomplishment has no peers anywhere in the world.

The reason is because America now has a permanent census bureau, one which is always making preparations for the next decade's count. The country's solons will go down into the public treasury this winter for $14,000,000 for the 1910 census, and of that sum, $1,500,000 is for maintainence of a permanent bureau.

Speaking in smaller figures, it costs the United States government 17 cents for counting each and every man, woman, boy and girl once in ten years. It costs just as much to count John D. Rockefeller as it does the lone immigrant from Norway who arrives at New York with $23 as a nucleus for his prospective fortune.

It is estimated that the population of this country has increased 20 per cent. since the last census was taken in 1900 and according to conservative guesses by men who are qualified to know, the number of persons should total in the neighborhood of 90,000,000. As a consequence statisticians have arrived at the decision that in 1920 the population will touch the 100,000,000 mark.

The census of 1910 is to cost the people little more than that of 1900 for the reason that machines, which are wonderful in their makeup, have been invented by members of the census bureau and these do far greater work than the old style counting devices in use when the job was started nine years ago.

There are two styles of machines—one is the card punching device and the other, the tabulator. The first punches the holes in the census cards, which are arranged much as in the conventional card index. The wonderful tabulating machine then takes the pasteboards and solely by mechanical means adds, classifies, and makes up totals from the cards, which pass through the device faster than the eye can follow them. Both machines are essential and each is dependent upon the other for success.

The new card punching machine, which is a great improvement upon the old system, is an electrical contrivance. Hitherto the operator was compelled to play upon it like a typist, but to-day all that is necessary is to touch the key desired, press a lever and the machine keeps on punching cards as long as the power is kept on. The old hand puncher was capable of sending out 900 cards each day while the new automaton attains a speed of 3,500 and saves the operators' nerves.

Another feature of these new machines is that the United States will soon know, after the cards have been turned in by the great army of statistics-gatherers, just where it stands on population.

Classification is also a great feature, divisions being made of whites, blacks, and other races, along with females, males, natives, foreigners, married and single persons.

One hundred and fifty of these new machines are in the process of construction for the census taking of 1910. Three thousand persons will do the clerical work in the government offices at Washington. So you see there is something to this census taking business.

Director North of the census declares that as soon as the incoming cards are punched he will be able to give to the country the total. The tabulating machines are now a closely guarded secret in a little machine shop at the census bureau offices in Washington and at last accounts the experts at work upon it were perfecting the details of its construction. It is a government invention and no one person gets the credit for it, but it will revolutionize the business of counting noses.

In other years Uncle Sam's work of taking a snap shot of his people was like a man in the hay and feed business jumping into a printing shop and trying to make good. The conditions each ten years were so much different from those of the decade previous that even though the same persons were given the care of the offices connected therewith, they found themselves at sea within a few days. Now, however, the permanent census bureau makes the counting of the population a business for all time with Uncle Sam and this gigantic job will be given the attention of his weather eye from day to day, though the fruits of the work will be thrust into the public gaze only once in ten years.

Men who are experts on taking the census of countries declare that the system by which the government will take the count in 1910 is admittedly a model which the whole world should follow, if it would be as up-to-date as this corner. Another project is on foot to-day which will greatly facilitate this census program. That is the erection of a permanent home for the population-counters. If congress allows Director North to erect such an edifice, it will be a specially constructed statistics manufacturing plant. In a communication to congress Director North sets forth his plans. He plans to expend the sum of $675,000 for the purchase of a site and for the six-story fireproof building upon which he is laying his program. This, he says, will provide ample accommodations for the 3,000 persons who are engaged in this work from year to year.

To-day, if you were to visit Washington, and wished to see the census bureau, you would be led to a one-story brick structure which was erected for the tabulation of statistics in 1900. One great space problem which the government faces is the storing of census reports and this took up just about all the room of the old structure, so that most of the clerks and other help had to be accommodated elsewhere. It was recently estimated that it would house just about one-fourth of the clerks needed for the census next year.

The great army of house-to-house canvassers who will count you and your family in 1910 are not as yet even estimated by Director North, but it is recorded that one man counts only about 10,000 persons, many of them counting less in the small space of time allotted to the tabulation.

Thousands upon thousands of extra men will be placed upon the payroll of the United States government next summer and shortly afterward this great counting process will be commenced. After the New Year the greatest problem which Director North faced was of getting enough money from congress to fully guarantee a complete count, which would fully set forth all that statisticians wished to know. The census budget was up before congress last year, but was turned over to the 1908-09 national legislature.

Lawmakers much regret that whereas the constitution of the United States requires that each ten years there be a complete, satisfactory census of all the souls in the country, no adequate plans were made when the republic was planted on this side of the Atlantic. For that reason every decade saw a hurry and scurry to count the population, great confusion, distress in some sections and general prevalence of conditions bordering on chaos. So, for more than a century it continued thus each year, for the preceding administration, it is stated, did not care about giving the next successful party anything upon which the caption of "spoils" might be hung, it is declared.

So nobody went after a real census system very strongly.

But modern ideas have been injected into the counting process and the gigantic move for a permanent bureau having succeeded, we are now to have a census which will enumerate, speedily, accurately and give results to the people in the shortest possible time. The establishment of a permanent bureau will also bring about the perfection of more accurate, faster and far better ideas at later dates. Each decade will see changes for the best, it is declared by those in power at Washington.

Cultivate the Open Mind.

President Eliot says the open mind is a fruit of culture. And it is likewise, a Christian virtue. The man with an open mind is an agreeable person. He is just and kindly. One can talk with him with pleasure, for one can be quite sure, if the mind is open, there is no prejudice, envy or ill-will there. The open mind is where the truth is welcomed, and where it is not tainted with meanness of any kind.

As a general thing, the more ignorant a person is the tighter is his mind closed. He thus becomes exceedingly absurd, and consequently pitiful. He loses influence and in time, respect. He likes to say his mind is made up, which means that the doors and windows of his soul are shut and no more light will be let in.

That is a bad situation for a person to get in. It is full of cold gloom, pessimism, and malign meditations; and stands in the way of the world getting better. And who wants to be such an obstruction?

Not long until ready to say a good-bye.

O. L. Bailey, of Sinnamahoning, was to the saw mill at Miles Smith's last Monday, looking after the interests of his lumber.

Some of the high officials representing the B. & S., again inspected the water line at Lick Island Run. They are contemplating building a watertank near this place, and are trying to locate a suitable site for the same.

We are glad to say that the remainder of the telephone wire has arrived, and that the work of the company will be completed in a few days. This will enable our citizens to talk anywhere between Wharton and Sinnamahoning.

Frank L. Miller, Sec'y of Grove School District for the past fifteen years, and one of the best citizens of that community, has been appointed Jury Commissioner, to fill out the unexpired term of Judge Wykoff.

Our popular post master C. E. Logue, succeeded in catching a fox. We all know that foxes are very sly animals, but they are not so sly as our post master. He has prepared an entirely new bait. In addition to onions, he used skunk cabbage and leek.

We are sorry to say that our good friend, Fred Peno, had the misfortune to hurt his foot very badly last Thursday, Jan. 14. He was helping to load a sled with logs, and his foot suddenly slipped and a log fell on it. Mr. Peno has had a great deal of trouble the past year, and he has the sympathy of the entire community.

The B & S. have hired a new boss on the section adjoining Sinnamahoning. It has been about three or four weeks since they hired the former one. It seems that much dissatisfaction takes place on that section.

James Burlingame, the successful operator at Lushbaugh, is suffering with a very painful felon on his finger. Any one who has experienced one of these, will find that a felon is not a very comfortable thing to nurse.

W. H. Mitchell, Dentist, Emporium.

E. M. Weaver who is stationed at Falls Creek, visited his family over Sunday.

Mrs. J. M. English visited with Mrs. J. S. Jordan, Friday. She was accompanied by Mrs. George English. They report a good time.

B. J. Furguson who was on the sick list last weeek, is this week on the working list. He is not feeling the best yet but is able to attend to his duties.

Nellie O'Keefe and Lois Miller visited their homes over Saturday, returning to their schools Sunday.

W. R. Hix got busy on Sunday with his grey and bay, and a little jag of hay (straw) and gathered up the Sunday school children and drove them to the church. This was a charitable act, as the snow was quite deep. A good act is never forgotten.

The church services held in the Mountain Mission Church by the Weslevan Methodists, is as follows: Sabbath school, 2:30 p. m., Young People's meeting, 6:30 p. m.; preaching by the Elder W. F. Hall, 7:30; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, All these meetings are well attended and still there is room for others. Come. Mrs. Grace Shingledecker led the young people's meeting, Sunday evening. Her subject was "Giving and the measure of it." She proved herself master of the subject. In her opening address to her hearers was well choosen, she said, "The proof of love is giving. A love that gives nothing, that makes no sacrifice, but asks all, is not love; it is selfishness. Love is large and generous, high and holy, whild selfishness is narrow and greedy, low and mean, it is the very essence of sin. He that sees only his own, loves not God or man; and to only self is to miss the sweetness of life, its hope, its aim, its end and to starve the soul to death. God would not be what He is, if He did not love, and it is because He loves that He gives. All that He gives to the angels which do His bidding, we know not. We do know that they give glad service and glorious praise. Give, we doubt, according to the measure of their capacity. How could they know of His love unless He gives? It is by giving that we know he loves. He gave not Christ for the angels, but for us. We measure His love to us by this gift. It was a gift which we do not merit. It was not because we had done so well; been so true; obeyed so implicitly that the gift was sent. It was rather because we had done so badly and sinned so grieviously and persistantly. It was not because of our love, but God commandeth His own love for us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us. See John 3, 16, A good time was had by all present; had a chance to talk on the subject. B. J. Furguson and Albert Eggler gave their experience on giving up using tobacco. Their talk was very interesting. And now they were giving what they spent for the filthy weed to the Lord. This is just what all good Christians will do and so mote it be.

The Doctors' Feed.

We clip the following from the Ridgway Democrat and since the the Elk county Medical society is composof the Cameron county doctors, as well as those of Elk county, it will be interesting to readers of the PRESS:

"The Elk County Medical Society held its annual meeting and banquet at the Bogert yesterday afternoon and evening. The meeting was held during the afternoon in the Bogert parlors and was well attended. Two interesting papers were read, one by Dr. John McGuaig, of Erie on "Suggestions in Functional Neuroses," and the other by Dr. Irving M. Snow of Bufialo, on "Congental Stenosis of the Pyloric Orifice in Infants." Both papers were able and commanded the closest attention of the physicians present. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Dr. M, M. Rankin of Ridgway; First vice president, Dr. C. C. Neff of St. Marys; second vice president, Dr. J. E. Ruth-erford of Ridgway; secretary, Dr R. P. Heilman of Emporium; treasurer, Dr A. Millhaupt of St. Marys. The board of censors consists of the first and second vice presidents and the secretary.

The banquet was held in the Bogert dining rooms at 7 o'clock, where a specially prepared table awaited the medical men.

After all had dined well came the post-prandial speeches. Dr. C. G. Wilson of St. Marys was toastmaster and Dr. S. M. Free of DuBois and Dr. R. P. Heilman of Emporium were the principal speakers. The first discoursed on "Professional Harmony" and the latter on "Medical Consistency, or Where Are We at Professionally?" They treated their topics in a manner that served greatly to entertain the guests. In fact the entire evening proved to be one of unalloyed enjoyment.

A Hustling Farmer.

We learn that Harry Kephart has invented a new process for making ice and has already gotten in his supply. He freezes water in a pail and then breathes on the pail and removes the ice Nothing like being thoughtful. Harry says he has clean spring water ice. It is none of the filthy creek water and saved the old horses a hard pull up the mountain road with a load of ice. Now, when you want a good fresh drink of water next summer, just go up to Harvey Kephart's. He won't charge you anything for it; you know Harvey is a good fellow.

Krebbs, who got up the party and Miss Mary Edwards, who chaperoned the "girls". The majority of the "young lads and lasses" are stil talking over the pleasant and enjoyable treat and wishing there were more Al Krebbs' in Portage.

Minstrel Entertainment.

The Mountaineer Hose Company are perfecting arrangements for another minstrel entertainment to be given in the early part of February. The minstrel entertainment given by this company two years ago will be remembered with much pleasure by our citizens as an exceptionally good production. The committee in charge of the arrangements informs us that the attraction this year will outrival anything ever given in Emporium. An entirely new and catchy program is being prepared and all of the best local talent will be secured. The business manager is making arrangements to give the performance at several of the nearby towns and we are positive from the reports we have from the members of two years ago that this will be as pleasurable, as well as profitable departure. The committee in charge of the preparation are M. J. Harris, Dr. L. R Felt and E. R. Tulis and they are hard at work and rehearsals have already commenced. Watch for the date and particulars.

Returns From South.

Jess C. Skillman, who has been lumbering in W. Va., for several years, returned to Emporium last week, accompanied by his family "Jess" has been quite successful in the south and goes to Georgia in the near future to enter the employ of E V. Misery in Stomach.

Why not start now—to-day, and for ever rid yourself of Stomach trouble and indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diapepsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of gas or eructations of undigected food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of Indigestion and Upset Stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take gas from stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and besides, one triangule will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound healthy, stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to begin taking Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin, because you want to be thoroughly cured of indigestion.

Editor Press:—

Will you please inform me and allow me to make a few inquiries through columns of the PRESS. Why is it there is so much discrimination displayed in the drawing of jurors for criminal court? Look over your jury lists for years gone by and you will observe that there is a very small per centage of business men on the lists. It is no trouble at all to find men well qualified for jurors that have lived in Cameron county for years and have never been drawn as jurors. What is the reason? While others are drawn year after year, it looks as though there are men to be drawn that will be led by others. If this is the case it is a poor chance for justice. A juror should stand on his judgment, not the opinion of others, or led by some smooth-tongued juror. Again, go to the train when court is called and watch the majority of the jurors rush for a barroom the first thing Mingle and talk with them, you will see how many you find without the smell of liquor. Can a juror that has been filled with booze give you or me a good clean verdict. No, a thousand times no. Some of your jurors at the last court answered to their names when called, and had they been called to sit in the box at that time some one would have had to help them to a seat.

Now can this state of affairs be remedied? Give the tax collector in each election district, or the assessors of each district, power to certify to the Jury Commissioners competent citizens who have lived in Cameron county, or any other county of the state. Then, and only then will we have fair, honorable and competent men to serve as jurors.

A Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches in two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is often two or three months before he is fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, as by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, as directed, a cure may as a rule be effected in less than one week's time, and in many cases within three days. Chamberlain's Liniment also offords great relief in cases of chronic and muscular rheumatism. Twenty-five and fifty cent bottles. Sold by Taggart.

Nervous Collapse

"I have traveled for thirty years continually. I lost a great deal of sleep, which together with constant worry left me in such a nervous state that finally, after having two collapses of nervous prostration, I was obliged to give up traveling altogether. I doctored continually but with no relief. Dr. Miles' Nervine came to my rescue—I cannot describe the suffering which this Nervine saved me. Whenever I am particularly nervous a few doses relieve me." A. G. C. LIBBY, Wells, Me.

There are many nervous wrecks. There is nervous prostration of the stomach, of the bowels, and other organs. The brain, the kidneys, the liver, the nerve centers are all exhausted. There is but one thing to do—build up the nervous system by the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Its strengthening influence upon the nervous system restores normal action to the organs, and when they all work in harmony, health is assured. Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it all according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

SERIAL STORY

THE ESCAPADE

A POST MARITAL ROMANCE

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

(Copyright, 1908, by W. G. Chapman.)

The Escapade opens, not in the romance preceding the marriage of Ellen Slocum, a Puritan miss, and Lord Carrington of England, but in their life after settling in England. The scene is placed, just following the revolution, in Carrington castle in England. The Carringtons, after a house party, engaged in a family tilt, caused by jealousy. The attentions of Lord Carrington to Lady Cecily and Lord Strathgate to Lady Carrington compelled the latter to vow that she would leave the castle. Preparing to flee, Lady Carrington and her chum Deborah, an American girl, met Lord Strathgate at two a. m., he agreeing to see them safely away. He attempted to take her to his castle, but she left him stunned in the road when the carriage met with an accident. She and Debbie then struck out for Portsmouth, where she intended to sail for America. Hearing news of Ellen's flight, Lords Carrington and Seton set out in pursuit. Seton rented a fast vessel and started in pursuit. Strathgate, bleeding from fall, dashed on to Portsmouth, for which Carrington, Ellen and Seton were also headed by different routes. Strathgate arrived in Portsmouth in advance of the others, finding that Ellen's ship had sailed before her. Strathgate and Carrington each hired a small yacht to pursue the wrong vessel, upon which each supposed Ellen had sailed. Seton overtook the fugitives near Portsmouth, but his craft ran aground just as capture was imminent. Ellen won the chase by boarding American vessel and foiling her pursuers. Carrington and Strathgate, thrown together by former's wrecking of latter's vessel, engaged in an impromptu duel, neither being hurt. A war vessel, commanded by an admiral friend of Seton, then started out in pursuit of the women fugitives, Seton confessing love for Debbie. Flagship Britannia overtook the fugitives during the night. The two women escaped by again taking to the sea in a small boat. Lord Carrington is ordered to sea with his ship but refuses to go until after meeting Strathgate in a duel. They fight in the grounds of Lord Blythedale's castle. Encounter is watched by Ellen and Debbie, who have reached land and are in hiding. Carrington won bloody contest at swords from Strathgate, Debbie and Ellen looking on and praying for the latter's husband. Carrington, immediately following the duel, was placed under arrest for refusing to obey his admiral's orders and Ellen, who had swooned during the duel, awoke to find him gone. Sir Charles Seton found the fugitives, proposed to Debbie and was accepted. Debbie, Ellen and Sir Charles made a plea to the king to spare Carrington. The king decides to grant a pardon after promising Lady Carrington that he would frighten the lord. King George, with Admiral Kephard, arrange a surprise for Carington. Lord Carrington was pardoned by King George and ordered on a three-year cruise, being denied the privilege of seeing his wife until the end of that period.

"Very well," said the king, somewhat indifferently, it seemed, "you will repair aboard the Bellona at once. Her captain has not yet joined. You will assume temporary command and take her to Weymouth, which is the nearest port to your seat, I believe. You will remain there just long enough to get together your sea kit and receive your captain, and then you will proceed to the East Indies, reporting to Admiral Clarkson when you arrive on the station."

"And my wife, your majesty?"

"I have taken care," said the king, gravely, "that she shall be carefully protected and looked after until your return at least."

"And may I not see her before I go?"

"I cannot modify the orders," answered the king. "I have already extended to you unusual clemency. But I give you my word that your wife will be well cared for. She is under my especial protection, remember."

"By Gad, jad!" cried the old admiral, turning about, "get down on your knees and thank the king's majesty for his gracious clemency. You're a lucky dog and don't deserve it."

CHAPTER XXIII.
The King's Jest.

A short time after two boats pulled away from the Britannia. In one of them sat the majesty of England. There was more ruffling of bugles, more rolling of drums, more blaring of trumpets, more thundering of guns, more hurrahing from the men, as the little king, thoroughly delighted with his royal clemency, was rowed back to the shore.

The other boat departed shortly after the king's, without exciting the slightest attention. The officer of the deck escorted Carrington over the side, shook hands with him and the boat pulled away to the Bellona, a handsome 32-gun frigate fresh from the shipyards and ready for her maiden cruise, which lay near by.

Carrington was received there with some ceremony. His arrival had been expected. Parkman, who had been transferred from the Renown, met him at the gangway and the two shook hands fervently.

"I am ordered to this ship, Jack, as first lieutenant," said Carrington, gloomily, as they turned and walked aft. "Here are my papers. As you will see, I am directed to assume charge, the captain not being aboard, and take the ship around to Weymouth, where he will join us."

"And the court-martial?" asked Parkman.

"The king hath pardoned me."

"And your wife?"

"God only knows!" said Carrington, desperately. "All I know is that she is well and under the king's especial protection. We are bound for the East Indies for three years. Three years away from her! God, what a fool I've been. Strathgate was right!" Carrington turned away, putting strong constraint upon himself in order to compose his features. "Well," he said at last, "are you all ready?"

"Ready to trip," returned Parkman.

"Call all hands. I'll read them my orders and then we'll get up anchor."

In a moment the shill piping of the boatswain and his mates along the deck was followed by the trampling of many feet. The crew, a splendid set of fellows, assembled in the gangways. Carrington read his orders to them, directed the commanding officer's pennant to be hoisted and bade Parkman, who for the present acted as first lieutenant, to get under way.

There were many expert seamen among the crew and the meaneuver was handsomely performed. The anchor was hove short, the topsails were loosed and sheeted home, the anchor was tripped, the ship's head was cast to starboard, the sails filled, the wind was fair, and she glided gracefully from the anchorage abaft the Britannia and swept toward the great liner, whose tall sides towered above her like a castle wall.

As the Bellona drew abreast the liner a burly figure suddenly appeared on the edge of the high poop of the Britannia. Recognizing the admiral, Carrington, who had stood aft on the quarterdeck of his frigate, bared his head and saluted. The admiral returned the compliment with his own chapeau, then he turned and waved it forward. Instantly the rails of the Britannia swarmed with men, and from their throats at another signal from the admiral came such a burst of cheering as warmed the very cockles of the melancholy Carrington's heart, dropping behind him, on which somewhere his wife's foot rested. What was she doing? Where was she living? What was she thinking of him? He knew nothing save that in some manner she was under the especial protection of the king; that was assurance enough that she was well cared And with this cheerful sea compliment and these words of good will the frigate shot ahead and presently clapping on more canvas bore swiftly down the river.

Carrington stared long and desperately back toward the shores, fast for, for no man questioned the honesty, sincerity or kindliness of George the Third. It would be three years before he would see her again. The thought was maddening to him. He did not even know where to write to her. He was not at all sure that the king would cause his letter to be delivered to her. He came to a desperate resolution. He would write her another letter and send it from Weymouth by special messenger to the king and beg him to see that it was delivered.

It was not until late in the afternoon, when the Bellona was fairly in the channel beating down toward her destination, that Carrington went below. As there was no captain yet on the ship the quarters of that functionary by right belonged to him. He entered them without ceremony. The cabin on the new ship looked bright and cheery. Its equipments were rude, of course, as were those of all ships in those days, but they were better than those in ordinary vessels, the Bellona being the newest and most advanced product of theshipyards.

To a sailor of that day it was both a spacious and delightful sea home. To Carrington it was only a prison. He did not attempt to enter the staterooms on either side, but sat down at the table, buried his face in his hands and groaned aloud. It was the first moment of privacy that he had enjoyed. It was the first opportunity afforded him to give way to his feelings, and he indulged himself at will. Separated from his wife, and through his own folly! The future that had opened so fairly before him utterly wrecked! Three long weary years at the least, and possibly four, to intervene before he could see her again. He almost envied Strathgate—fighting desperately for life at Blythedale Hall and likely to be an invalid for the rest of his days—because he would be in England while Carrington was far away.

He had gone through so much. He had drunk so deeply the bitter cup of repentance that he gave way completely to his emotions. His body shook and trembled in his reckless abandon to his feelings.

"This will never do," he said at last. "My punishment seems greater than I can bear, and yet I must bear it; I must show myself a man for her."

A little hand fell softly upon his shoulder with touch as light as that of thistledown. Where that hand touched him was the center of his being. My lord turned his head, looked at it slowly, turned his body, followed it up, saw a face he dreamed of, tears rolling from eyes that looked love at him, and in another moment he was clasped in his wife's arms.

This was the punishment meted out to him by little George. He was to go to the Indies, but not alone. When there was time for coherent speech Ellen handed her husband another paper appointing him captain of the Bellona, subject only to the orders of his wife.

"God bless him!" cries my lord, folding his wife again to his heart.

"And I say so, too," answers Ellen, "although we fought against him so long, he hath a kindly heart."

"He hath, indeed," returned Carrington, after a time. "He gave me his royal word that you should be well looked after for the next three years, and the keeping of the king's word is intrusted to me. I shall see to it."

"Nay," said Ellen, "you are under my command now. Look at your orders."

"'Tis even so, my little captain," laughed my lord, sweeping her to his heart again. "And what orders do you propose to issue to me?"

"I should like to present to you two of my friends."

"Your friends are my friends, my dear," returned Carrington, "and when occasion serves I shall be happy to greet them."

"It serves now," said Ellen, drawing herself away from him. And indeed she found it difficult, for he would by no means let her go, following her aft and still keeping his hand about her waist as she opened the door of one of the cabins.

Out thence, for all the world like a Jack-in-the-box, popped Mistress Deborah, her cheeks redder than the scarlet ribbons she affected, and stalking behind her came Sir Charles Seton in great dignity.

"I did you an injustice, Charles!" cried my Lord Carrington. "I humbly beg your pardon. I have not heard the story"—and Seton was glad my lord's remarks were so spontaneous—"but I know that you were true."

"It's granted, Bernard," said Seton heartily. "I could forgive you anything, knowing how you felt over the loss of your wife, for to-day I can put myself in your place in one particular."

"And how's that?"

"In this way," returned Seton. "Permit me"—he seized the blushing Deborah as he spoke—"Salute Lady Seton, Carrington."

"What! Is it so?"

"We were married this morning, the king himself being one of the witnesses."

"And do you go with us to India?"

"Nay," answered Seton, "only to Weymouth."

And at that Carrington was very glad, for though he loved Seton much, he loved his wife more, and he wanted her for the rest of his life all to himself.

Seton divined that, for presently he took Deborah by the hand and led her forth upon the quarterdeck, leaving Carrington and Ellen alone together, each in the haven where they fain would be; husband and wife, one and inseparable now and forever, locked in each other's arms.

(THE END.)

BUYING THEM A LITTLE DRINK.

City Official Hadn't Consulted the Tastes of His Clerks.

Some time ago, E. W. Bemis, superintendent of the city water works, asked two clerks in another city department to make some computations for him. They worked late and finished the figures to Mr. Bemis' entire satisfaction.

"That's very kind of you, boys," he told them. "I guess I will have to buy you a little drink."

They didn't mind. So the three sallied forth from the city hall. Mr. Bemis led the way down Superior avenue. When he passed some of the drink dispensaries without casting as much as a glance in their direction the two clerks began to wonder.

"He must be going to take us to the club," whispered one to the other.

At last they entered a bedizened spot at a street intersection. Walking up to the rail, Mr. Bemis spoke to the white-aproned attendant.

"Make us three nice sodas," he said. "What flavor will you have, boys?" He turned to hear their answer. He got none. They were not there.

"Well, what do you know about that?" said the other to one a few minutes later when the barkeep was "drawing two." One didn't know.—Cleveland Leader.

Caves of a Cannibal Race.

Strange evidences of cannibalism have been brought to light with the recent opening up of caves at One Tree Hill, Maungakiekie, New South Wales, and another link has been added to the chain of interest encircling this celebrated spot.

In one cave great piles of human bones have been discovered, mixed up indiscriminately and thrown down in one huge conical heap. These bones belonged to victims taken by the Maoris in battle and slaughtered for culinary purposes. Then they were dropped down the funnel-shaped mouth of the cave into darkness and oblivion.

A Master Stroke.

"Is your daughter as smart as her old dad?"

"Smart? Going to marry a duke."

"Is that smart?"

"In this case, yes. Love match; gets him for nothing."

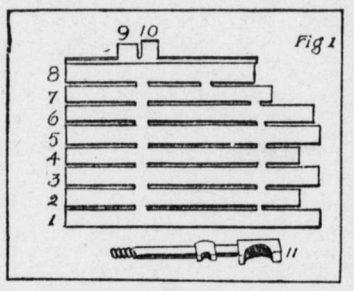
SCIENCE AND INVENTION

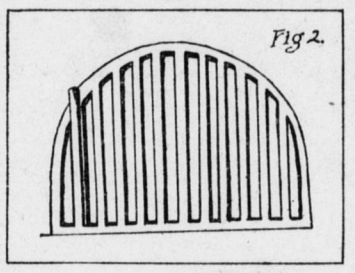
"GROWING" CAST IRON.

Remarkable Peculiarity of the Metal and Reason for It.

That cast iron will swell remarkably in bulk when alternately heated and cooled was shown about three years ago by Alexander E. Outerbridge, Jr., of Philadelphia, who was awarded in 1904 the Elliott Cresson gold medal of the Franklin Institute for his discovery. It seems possible, from facts stated in an article in the Philadelphia Record, that this discovery may prove to be useful as well as curious. We read:

"It had long been observed that iron castings, such as grate-bars and the like, when subjected to great heat for a long period of time, warped, twisted, and eventually cracked, but the true cause thereof had never been scientifically investigated, and various theories, such as 'oxidation' of the metal, 'burning' of some of the component parts, 'absorption of sulphur' from fuel, etc., were commonly advanced to account for the facts.





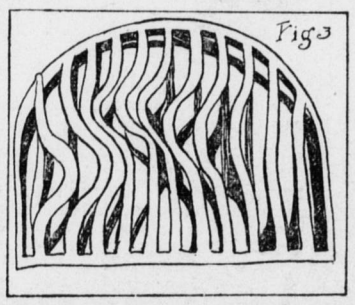


Fig. 1 shows cast-iron test bars (Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7) all cast of same dimensions, viz.: 14 13-16x1x1 inches. Bars 2 and 4 remain unchanged; the others have grown in cubical dimensions, under the heat treatment, from 30 to 40 per cent. No. 7 bar was cut 12 inches in length before treatment; it is now 13 inches long and 1⅛ inches cross-section. No. 8 is a steel bar cut 12 inches in length, and it has contracted one-eighth inch under the same treatment as bar No. 7. No. 9 is a section of bar before treatment. No. 10 is a section of the same bar after expansion by the treatment. No. 11 shows a piston of small pump after having been increased forty-five-one-thousandths inch in diameter on polished end before being reground to size. Figs. 2 and 3 show cast-iron gratings before and after exposure to heat.

"In order to study the effects of heat on metals, Mr. Outerbridge prepared a number of test-bars, all of the same size, of cast iron, wrought iron, steel, copper and bronze. These bars—which were exactly one foot long and one inch square section—were inclosed in an iron pipe about two feet long, the ends of the pipe being lined with fire-clay.

"The pipe containing the bars was then placed in a gas-furnace and heated for about ten hours to a high temperature, but not sufficiently high to soften the pipe or melt the test-bars.

"The pipe was allowed to cool down over night before opening, and the inclosed test-bars taken out when quite cold and accurately measured. The cast-iron bars differed from all of the others in that they had all grown permanently longer and thicker; the bars of steel showed, on the contrary, a very slight diminution in dimensions, while the other metal bars were unchanged in size.

"These tests were then repeated many times, and, surprising to relate, the cast-iron bars continued growing in length, breadth and thickness, until the increase in volume amounted to no less than 46 per cent., after which there was no further increase by subsequent heating and cooling. It was found that the bars were unchanged in weight and retained their metallic solidity in appearance to the naked eye.

"When, however, a thin section of one of the bars was examined under a powerful microscope it was found coarser in texture than a section of the same bar before the permanent increase in dimensions had taken place.

"It was also found, as might be expected, that the strength of the metal was as decreased in proportion to the permanent expansion. Mr. Outerbridge found by miscroscopic and chemical examination that the extraordinary enlargement of cast iron is due to a movement among the molecules or individual particles of cast iron (which is a crystalline metal) and not to oxidation or absorption of sulphur or to burning out of any of the component parts.

"Soon various practical applications of this discovery were found . . . among which the following may be noted:

"In the American Machinist of July 7, 1907, a maker of marine gas-engines describes how a cast-iron piston 3½ inches in diameter and 4½ inches long which had become worn by friction until it was too small for further use was caused to 'grow' to its original size in one treatment and that he had been able to restore it promptly into daily use, whereas formerly a new piston would have been required, causing considerable delay and expense."

MAXIM NOISELESS RIFLE.

What a Test of the New Gun Demonstrated.

A test, made at the Springfield armory, of the noiseless rifle invented by Hudson Maxim, is described in Machinery. Says this paper:

"The test demonstrated that the report of a service army rifle was so reduced by the device as to be inaudible at a distance of 150 feet from the person firing. The invention is of a nature similar to the muffler of a gas engine. Its essential parts are a valve that closes the bore of the gun immediately after the projectile has passed the valve. This closure of the valve prevents the sudden expansion of the gases, the gases being emitted slowly. The result is that the characteristic report of a rifle is reduced three-fourths in loudness, it being judged by the officials who were present that the efficiency of the apparatus was about seventy-four per cent. In the report of the test it is stated that upon firing, the report was like the snapping of one's fingers accompanied by a slight hissing as the gases escaped. The sound of the hammer striking the firing-pin was much sharper than the report of the piece. The invention appears to be entirely practicable and it is thought that it will work a revolution in warfare. The firing line of an army equipped with noiseless and smokeless rifles will be very hard to locate, as there will be neither noise nor smoke to guide the observer as to the position of the enemy. A dangerous feature of the new weapon is that it lends itself admirably to the cowardly assassin. With a noiseless gun it will be possible to shoot down a man in the street without alarming the police. On the other hand, as a game gun the new rifle will be highly prized, it being possible with it to shoot an animal without scaring the remainder of the herd; but even that has its drawback, as it will tend to make the business of pot-hunting successful."

SELF-CLOSING DRAWER.

An Excellent Feature of the Newest Filing Cabinet.

The newest feature of the filing cabinet system is a self-closing dawer. The card index and filing systems are now so general that no office, no matter how insignificant, is found without it in some shape. Indeed, in some establishments the walls are to be seen lined completely with the sets of drawers and cabinets in which correspondence is put away for future reference. In the hands of careless employes, who may leave drawers and lockers open or partially so, even for a short time, the room presents a decidedly disorderly appearance. So to overcome this the self-closing drawer has been designed. This automatic movement on the part of the drawer is accomplished by constructing the drawer on a pair of inclined runways with an arrangement of flanges, so that as the drawer is left in an extended position its weight will gradually carry it down the incline and back to its place. It is impossible to leave the drawer standing open.

A Home-Made Barometer.

Take one-fourth ounce of pulverized camphor, 62 grains of pulverized nitrate of potasium, 31 grains nitrate of ammonia and dissolve in two ounces alcohol. Put the solution in a long, slender bottle, closed at the top with a piece of bladder containing a pinhole to admit air, says Metal Worker. When rain is coming the solid particles will tend gradually to mount, little crystals forming in the liquid, which otherwise remains clear; if high winds are approaching the liquid will become as if fermenting, while a film of solid particles forms on the surface; during fair weather the liquid remains clear and the solid particles will rest at the bottom.

Ship Building in England.

From the returns compiled by Lloyd's Register, it appears that, excluding warships, there were 319 vessels of 733,378 tons gross under construction in the United Kingdom at the close of September, 1908.

The Disturbing Telephone.

"The telephone has destroyed all the privacy of society," said the society girl. "It breaks in on everything. Nothing is sacred to it. You may be saying your prayers. The telephone. Or in the midst of your bath. The telephone. Or doing up your back hair, or, worst of all, a delightful man may be making love to you, when k-ling, k-ling, k-ling! The telephone breaks off the thread of his theme and he fails to resume it."

The grain crop of 1908 will net many farmers $20.00 to $25.00 per acre. Grain-raising, mixed farming and dairying are the principal industries. FARM AND GARDEN

BUSINESS FARMING.

Use System in the Work and It Will Pay.

I have been a farmer long enough to learn the cause of so many sons and daughters and well-meaning, reliable farm hands leaving the beautiful farm and country and going to the city. A lack of order and system on the farm and too long hours for a day is what is driving the best minds from the farm to the city and shop, declares a writer in Farmers' Review. What can we expect of a hand, or the farmer's wife and her posterity, in the way of intellectual development, when they get out of their beds at 3:30 in the morning and work from that time until 8 or 9 p. m.? And no attention paid to the sanitary conditions of the home, and necessary conveniences on the farm for doing the farm work with the least labor and time.

Give me the educated farmer as a boss and the educated farm hand as a hand. When I come in contact with a hand or farmer that studies his business I find him advancing, and it is a pleasure to work for such men.

The majority of the farmers are eight-hour men, that is, eight hours in the forenoon and eight in the afternoon. Eight or ten hours on the farm cannot well be adapted in all cases, but it need not be from 14 to 16 hours. If the family arise every morning at five o'clock and the wife and daughters attend to the household duties, and the farm hands and sons attend to the chores and go to the field at seven o'clock and work until 11 or 11:30, and go to the field again at one and keep at it until six o'clock, and go to the house and eat the supper and then do the evening chores, they have done a farm day's work. Regular hours for work and regular hours for sleep and regular hours for rest and recreation, with plenty of standard papers and books, including the best agricultural papers and books, and a full faith in God, and good grub is wanted.

The family should rise at five o'clock on Sunday morning as well as on week days, and do the necessary Sunday morning chores, and then go to church and show the business man in the city that Sunday on the farm does not consist in changing the stock from one field to another, or salting it, or unloading a load of hay that was brought in on Saturday evening.

Coming to the meals at the meal hour makes it easy on the wife so she can arrange her household duties in order, as can also the husband his farm work.

Men of worth and standing in the shop and city tell me that if order and system were used on the farm they would go back to the farm. If the farmer wants to keep his sons and daughters on the farm he must not lengthen the hours for a day's work at both ends. Limit the hours of work on the farm to 12 or 13 with pay for overtime, and freedom to the hired man on Sunday.

HOME-MADE WHEELBARROW.

found at the junk dealer's. The legs of this barrow are those of an old chair, braced with a piece of iron, says the Farm and Home. These articles in themselves are worthless, but in their combination we create something very useful.

FARM PICK UPS.

One of the most important considerations of the farmer should be the water supply, both for the household and the animals.

If we all would eat more fruit and less meat we would be better off. Fruit juices aid digestion, promote healthy circulation and clear the mind.

Pears and apples will keep better and retain more of their plumpness and flavor if wrapped separately in tissue paper and stored in a cool place.

The value of the estimated American cut of lumber, lath and shingles for 1907 is $750,000,000. In the same year the value of the corn crop was $1,326,901,000 and of the wheat crop $554,437,000.

Oil will spoil the squeal of the wheel.

Is there any practical way of cleaning wild onions out of a pasture except by plowing and clean cultivation?

Small seeds require finer soil than large seeds.

Farming for Money.

Years ago we farmed to live, but now we farm to make money. Money predominates over health and comfort This is why fruit is so neglected when the All-Wise Creator gave man before he gave him bread and meat

PATIENT SUFFERING.

Many Women Think They Are Doomed to Backache.

It is not right for women to be always ailing with backache, urinary ills, headache and other symptoms of kidney disease. There is a way to end these troubles quickly. Mrs. John H. Wright, 606 East First St., Mitchell, S. D., says: "I suffered ten years with kidney complaint and a doctor told me I would never get more than temporary relief. A dragging pain and lameness in my back almost disabled me. Dizzy spells came and went and the kidney secretions were irregular. Doan's Kidney Pills rid me of these troubles and I feel better than for years past."

DREADFUL DANDRUFF.

Girl's Head Encrusted—Feared Loss of All Her Hair—Baby Had Milk-Crust — Missionary's Wife Made Two Perfect Cures by Cuticura.

"For several years my husband was a missionary in the Southwest. Every one in that high and dry atmosphere has more or less trouble with dandruff and my daughter's scalp became so encrusted with it that I was alarmed for fear she would lose all her hair. After trying various remedies, in desperation I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. They left the scalp beautifully clean and free from dandruff, and I am happy to say that the Cuticura Remedies were a complete success. I have also used successfully the Cuticura Remedies for so-called 'milk-crust' on baby's head. Cuticura is a blessing. Mrs. J. A. Darling, 310 Fifth St., Carthage, Ohio, Jan. 20, 1908."

Take Warning, Girls!

Cupid is always painted with wings, perhaps to show how easily he can fly away. Mnay women forget this once they are married, and the man who fell in love with his wife, because, before marriage, she always looked so dainty and well groomed, is sometimes woefully disappointed to find how little care she takes over her appearance for ordinary, everyday occasions afterwards.

It isn't fair to any husband to let oneself go in this way. If you do, and find that very soon Cupid flies out at the window, you will have only yourself to blame.—Home Chat.

Valuable Conch Shells.

The conch shell is highly prized in India. In many of the temples they are blown daily to scare away the malignant spirits while the god receives his daily meal. A conch with the spiral twistings to the right instead of to the left is supposed to be worth its weight in gold. Some years ago a conch of that description was offered for sale in Calcutta, with a reserve price of a lakh of rupees placed on it. It was eventually bought in for $20,000.

Rather Hard.

The messenger entered the palace with the dispatches.

"Brimstone and asphalt!" ejaculated Castro, as he read the yellow slip. "Holland threatens to spank us."

"Well, what of it, your excellency?" responded the secretary. "Other nations have threatened to do the same."

"Yes, but, confound it, this 'is a spanking that will hurt. The Dutch wear wooden shoes."

A Woman's Threat.

"Well, if that ain't the limit," mused the postman, as he came down the steps of a private residence.

"What's the trouble?" queried the passing citizen, who had overheard the postman's noisy thought.

"Why," explained the man in gray, "the woman in that house says if I don't come along earlier she'll get her letters from some other carrier."

ROSY AND PLUMP

Good Health from Right Food.

"It's not a new food to me," remarked a Va. man, in speaking of Grape-Nuts.

"About twelve months ago my wife was in very bad health, could not keep anything on her stomach. The Doctor recommended milk half water but it was not sufficiently nourishing.

"A friend of mine told me one day to try Grape-Nuts and cream. The result was really marvelous. My wife soon regained her usual strength and to-day is as rosy and plump as when a girl of sixteen.

"These are plain facts and nothing I could say in praise of Grape-Nuts would exaggerate in the least the value of this great food."

WHY NOT OWN LAND?

ONE OF THE BEST WAYS TO MAKE MONEY IS TO INVEST IN WESTERN CANADA.

"Deep down in the nature of every properly constituted man is the desire to own some land." A writer in the Iowa State Register thus tersely expresses a well-known truth. The question is where is the best land to be had at the lowest prices, and this the same writer points out in the same article. The fact is not disguised that the writer has a personal interest in the statement of his case, and there is no hidden meaning when he refers to Western Canada as presenting greater possibilities than any other part of the American Continent, to the man who is inclined to till the soil for a livelihood and possible competence. What interests one are the arguments advanced by this writer, and when fairly analyzed the conclusion is reached that no matter what personal interest the writer may have had, his reasons appear to have the quality of great soundness. The climatic conditions of Western Canada are fully as good as those of Minnesota, the Dakotas or Iowa, the productiveness of the soil is as great, the social conditions are on a parity, the laws are as well established and as carefully observed. In addition to these the price of land is much less, easier to secure. So, with these advantages, why shouldn't this—the offer of Western Canada—be embraced. The hundreds of thousands of settlers now there, whose homes were originally in the United States, appear to be—are satisfied. Once in awhile complaints are heard, but the Canadians have never spoken of the country as an Eldorado no matter what they may have thought. The writer happened to have at hand a few letters, written by former residents of the United States, from which one or two extracts are submitted. These go to prove that the writer in the Register has a good basis of fact in support of his statements regarding the excellency of the grain growing area of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. On the 29th of April of this year W. R. Conley, of Lougheed, Alberta, wrote a friend in Detroit. He says: "The weather has been just fine ever since I came here in March, and I believe one could find if he wanted to some small bunches of snow around the edge of the lake. There is a frost nearly every morning: at sunrise it begins to fade away, then those blue flowers open and look as fresh as if there had been no frost for a week. . . . There is no reason why this country should not become a garden of Eden; the wealth is in the ground and only needs a little encouragement from the government to induce capital in here. There is everything here to build with: good clay for brick; coal underneath, plenty of water in the spring lakes, and good springs coming out of the banks."

Splendid.

"That's a fine looking maid you have now, dear."

"Yes, she's a darling, and she came to me highly recommended."

"Knows all about the latest styles of maiding, I suppose?"

"Oh, so far as knowing the duties of a maid goes, I don't suppose she knows a thing."

"But she came highly recommended, you said?"

"Yes, she broke the jaw of the last man who tried to kiss her."—Houston Post.

BREAKS A COLD PROMPTLY

The following formula is a never failing remedy for colds:

One ounce of Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla, one ounce Toris Compound and one-half pint of good whiskey, mix and shake thoroughly each time and use in doses of a tablespoonful every four hours.

This if followed up will cure an acute cold in 24 hours. The ingredients can be gotten at any drug store.

Broadening His Purpose.

"Yes, the old millionaire left the college a hundred thousand to endow a Greek chair."

"That's fine."

"Well, the faculty thought it better to broaden the purpose of the gift. Instead of using the money for a single Greek chair they bought all the seats for the new stadium with it."

Hon. Emil Kiang, Vienna, Aus., one of the world's greatest horsemen, has written to the manufacturers: "SPOHN'S DISTEMPER COMPOUND has become the standard remedy for distempers and throat diseases in the best stables of Europe. This medicine relieves Horses of great suffering and saves much money for the owner." 50c and $1 a bottle. All druggists. SPOHN MEDICAL CO., Goshen, Ind.

Mix half ounce of Concentrated pine compound with two ounces of glycerine and a half pint of good whiskey; shake it well each time and use in doses of a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful every four hours.

These ingredients can be obtained from any good druggist who will prepare the mixture, or it can be mixed at home.

This is said to be the quickest cough and cold cure known to science, and at the same time it has a splendid tonic effect which benefits the whole system. The Concentrated pine is a special pine product refined for medical use and comes only in half ounce bottles, each enclosed in a round case, which is airtight, to retain all the original strength of the fluid, but be sure it is labeled "Concentrated."

EASY FOR THE PAINTER.

Worthy Individual Had All the Details in His Mind.

A Chicago artist relates how a wealthy individual from Kansas City, with his wife and three sons and four daughters, once called upon him.

"Here we are!" exclaimed the head of the family. "Nearly a dozen of us, Mr. Painter. How much for a painting of the whole of us, discount for cash?"

"That will depend," answered the artist, hiding a smile with his hand, "upon the dimensions, style, etc."

"Oh, that's all fixed," responded the other breezily, with the air of a man who knows exactly what he wants. "We are to be dashed off in one piece as large as life, sitting on the lawn of my place just outside of little old K. C., singing 'Hail Columbia!'"—Harper's Weekly.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

The secret of success is a secret women never tell.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Red Banks, Miss.—"Words are inadequate to express what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from a female disease and weakness which the doctors said was caused by a fibroid tumor, and I commenced to think there was no help for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman after all other means had failed. My friends are all asking what has helped me so much, and I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Willie Edwards.

Hampstead, Maryland.—"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was weak and nervous, and could not be on my feet half a day without suffering. The doctors told me I never would be well without an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors, and I hope this valuable medicine may come into the hands of many more suffering women."—Mrs. Joseph H. Dandy.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Here is something too good to keep. Two of our townsmen, just starting out in trapping, followed what they supposed was a skunk track to its home in the gound. They both followed the track and set the trap, expecting to catch the skunk the next morning, but behold their surprise the next morning, when they lifted their trap to find a rabbit in the trap. They both now swear it is the fault of the other; so we cannot say whose fault it was but we will blame the two of them. As they do not wish their names known we will not mention any.

William McCann our truant officer, is still after the school children and every day brings in a few stragglers. "Dad" is the right man at the right place.
